The University of Massachusetts Dartmouth

It's easy to wax nostalgic for the four years just passed, but you shouldn't. Instead you should congratulate yourself for a job well done, and look forward. The romantic aura that is forming around your undergraduate career might just as soon dissipate when you remember all the sleepless nights, crashed disks and financial aid delays that accompanied it. Or if you look to the uncertain job market ahead. But you did it. You're through.

You're now part of an elite group. Recent statistics suggest at least half of the undergraduates in state four-year institutions don't make it to graduation. According to The Almanac of Higher Education, nationwide, only 20% of all adults have their Bachelor's Degree; in Massachusetts, only 16% do. They also list 110,031 public four-year institution undergrads statewide; the Registrar's Office lists 5600 at UMass Dartmouth; over 1000 are in the graduating Class of 1994. So you're special.

If you think the last four years have been a growth spurt, just look at what your university has gone through since its inception: nearly a century ago the Bradford Durfee Textile School was established in New Bedford; this became the New Bedford Textile Institute in 1944, then the New Bedford Institute of Textiles and Technology in 1954 and then simply the New Bedford Institute of Technology in 1957.

The consolidation of the Bradford Durfee College of Technology and the New Bedford Institute of Technology in 1964 spawned the Southeastern Massachusetts Technological Institute. This set the stage for architect Paul Rudolph's innovative, monolithic campus design and the inception of Southeastern Massachusetts University in 1969. In 1988, SMU continued its forward momentum, taking the Swain School of Design on Purchase Street in New Bedford under its wing, despite increasingly hard economic times.

The final name change came on August 31, 1991 when the school we called home for the last four years became the University of Massachusetts Dartmouth, part of a single, five-branch University of Massachusetts system. With the state's support for higher education plummeting by 10% in the three academic years between 1990 and 1993 (the third biggest cut nationwide) it's easy to see that a streamlining of the academic bureaucracy was necessary at the state level. But would the name change help us? Or would we lose some autonomy at the state level in exchange for greater visibility and a corresponding boost in prestige? Only time will tell.

As you graduate, may you cherish the memories of your time here, draw strength from what you have learned and from the people you've met, and always remember what you accomplished.

It's your education now. You own it. You paid for it. No one can ever take it away. When you visit your alma mater again, remember that you support every stone-mottled step, every ribbed cement pillar through the efforts you make. You are the Class of 1994. Welcome to the world.

Susan Costa

Occasionally, we read that someone has been gifted with a priceless jewel, and we are awestruck and envious. Here at UMass Dartmouth, we have been gifted with a rare gem in the person of Susan Costa, and other schools may well look to us with awe and envy.

As UMass Dartmouth's Director of Student Activities, Susan is a bright and beautiful exemplar for all of us, especially for women, and most especially for women of color. Exquisitely balanced, she is both a devoted mother who lives according to strong family values, and a woman who loves her career and is committed to the students she serves. Susan has helped to create on this campus a multicultural environment that thrives on rich diversity and whose inhabitants neither perpetrate nor fall prey to discrimination of any sort. With skill and unruffled efficiency, Sue fills a multitude of roles, and with sensitivity and generous self-giving, meets a wide spectrum of needs. In hectic situations she provides the saving grace of humor coupled with a characteristic calmness that defuses tensions and unravels complications. Working with the Student Activities Board, Sue regularly extends herself beyond the requirements of her job, putting in long, extra hours, acting as the master problem solver and making great efforts to bring to the campus entertainment with the broadest appeal.

A born leader, Susan respects and considers the thoughts, opinions, and personalities of those she leads. Students and colleagues alike appreciate her conscientiousness, her optimistic attitude, and her ability to create a cohesive community out of disparate elements, and harmony out of cacophony. If we seek her help -- and many of us do -- Susan does us the unusual honor of really listening to us, really hearing us, and honestly reacting to what we say. With delicacy, genuineness, and innate wisdom, she offers us new perspectives for looking at situations, and sound advice for finding our own right directions.

Ultimately, what Susan Costa leaves on the minds of those who deal with her is the finely etched impression of a woman of great integrity, of gentle strength, and of genuine caring. That she will never compromise her principles to take an easier route, that she will always do the right thing without fanfare or posturing, and that she will always treat people fairly are things you intuit about her when you meet her, and confirm absolutely when you deal with her over a period of time. The loftiness of her ideals elevates our own, the examples of her supple confidence, her firm centeredness, and her graceful humor show us what a noble role leadership can be for both women and men. Above all, her concerned outreach offers us the caring contact any young adult in process is blessed to know. And, therefore, we, the Class of 1994, dedicate our yearbook to Susan Costa. May she always know that we recognized the rare gem in our midst and understood its worth. And may she always feel our enduring affection and our great and timeless gratitude.

To the Class of 1994

These are extraordinary times for this great institution and I believe we have all been fortunate to share in them. If you came here before 1991, you came to Southeastern Massachusetts University. You leave as graduates of a University of Massachusetts Dartmouth that is rapidly becoming a full partner with the University System.

I hope that as you reflect upon your years here, you also think about the future and your continuing relationship to the University. I believe that relationship has never been more important, nor has it ever manifested itself in so many critical ways.

It is clear that we are in an era of life-long learning. To continue to be competitive in the international marketplace we will all have to be prepared to continue our education. Your university is in the process of establishing a robust continuing education program, not just here in Dartmouth, but in Attleboro, Taunton, Plymouth, and Cape Cod. We want to be there when you need us again.

We must also work closely with business and professional leaders to develop special programs to meet new challenges during changing times. So I urge you, as you take your place among the leaders of tomorrow, to continue a close relationship with your university. We want to work with you to meet the changing needs of society. To do this we will need your input and regular feedback.

We must also find a way to continue our efforts to be inclusive – to provide a university education for all no matter what their ethnic or cultural background. Today, for many social and economic reasons too many people do not have access to public higher education. We must work together to change those things which limit access.

Part of that change is occurring because of unprecedented private support for UMass Dartmouth. Even as state budgets for Higher Education have contracted in the face of many other important demands, public generosity for this University, in honor of its 100th year has greatly increased. Our deceased alumni, Mr. Robert White, donated virtually his entire estate to UMass Dartmouth estimated at $4 million. This is the largest donation to any public college or university in Massachusetts ever. This is a sign that your University is held in high respect and that your hard-earned degree has ever increasing value.

The faculty and staff who stay behind to teach and serve again for other years are proud of you. We hope you will be proud of your University and visit us often. I wish you all possible success and happiness.

Sincerely,
Peter H. Cressy
Chancellor

Hello fellow Seniors! It has finally arrived — the day we all have been anticipating and perhaps dreading for the past four, five maybe six years — graduation. I'm sure lot's of you are filled with mixed emotions. At once, happy to be leaving the stress of oral reports, papers and finals but sad, because also left behind will be friends and the memories we've shared at UMass Dartmouth.

Our education here has been of the highest caliber. We can be proud because we have accomplished something. Hard work, dedication and perseverance gave us what we set out for — a degree. We are about to step into the "real world" where we can put into action all the valuable knowledge we have gained over the years.

Of course college is about learning and achieving, but it's also about growing as a person and having fun. The friends we've made at UMass will probably be some of the best friends we'll ever have. Let's not forget Michael's, The Rat, Cafe Giesta, Spring Break '94, Senior Week, Senior Blast-Off, party houses (dwindling in number each year), Gilligan's, The Playdium, Spring Week, Lupo's — the list is infinite. The class of 1994 knows how to party!

Thank you for giving me and my fellow class officers, Charlie, Suzi and Tina, the opportunity to serve you. It has been both a pleasure and a honor to know we have made our senior year the best it could possibly be. Best of luck in all your future endeavors.

Sincerely,
Michael Wood
Senior Class President

This piece is about me.

College has given me an entirely new perspective on who I am and who I aspire to be. This typography piece consists of random thoughts and feelings I was having at a rather low and problematic time in my life. It helped me clear out my mind and make healthy evaluations about myself and other women.

Women have a separate, unique culture and diversity of which many people disregard or are oblivious to. The older I grow, the more aware I become of my womanhood and it's importance. I have faith in the definite strength and power of women and believe that if given the chance, we can make monumental, positive, changes. But this can only be made possible by stepping beyond surface matters and focusing on inner qualities and spiritual strength. The effort is worth it.

I'm not attempting to be a representative for all women...

...this piece is about me.

I am a woman
and proud to be one.

Although we are prosecuted,
we are the stronger sex.
We are all dreamers.
We are constantly exposed
and it is a continuous struggle.

I am a lover of love,
but I hate love.

Our lives are nothing but hassles.
We are Gods beloved
and are always waiting for something, someone.
We are possibly the most misunderstood people.
We are like the earth
and should be respected, revered.

Women are artists.
Who is she? Do you really know her?
Probably not.
She gave her fantasy away and settled.
She gives her heart.

She loves herself
and she hates herself.

"I'm much too tall, to feel that small."
"And these are the years that we have spent.
And this is what they represent.
And this is how I feel.
Do you know how I feel?
Cause I don't think you know how I feel."

Do you ever think about her?
She grows stronger.
She gets weaker.
She has so much to offer.
Don't look at her that way.
What gives you the right to say that to her?
Now she wants to cry.
But she's tired of crying.
Women are categorized,
like pets.
We're so tired.
Do you ever really look at me and see me?

I want to be respected. I want to be appreciated. I want to be loved.
No one wants to be alone all their lives.
Sometimes I think I will be.
I want people to understand women.
To understand women is to understand me.
I don't want just men to understand,
because some women don't understand either.
These are perhaps the most lost creatures of them all.
This is what I wanted to communicate.
Perhaps I came across sounding angry, sappy or ridiculous.
But that's OK,
because I am all of these things.

Matt Smith

Dusty warehouse. I should be working, I know, but this is infinitely more interesting. I'm listening to one of my co-workers talk about his home. NOT LIKE MINE.

It's a hot summer in Lawrence, MA and I'm listening to summers of Spain. My co-worker talks excitingly about his home and I am excited. There is sadness there too. Things are different here he says. I should probably get to work now, but here comes another worker.

He tells me tales of a place not so far from me but still as interesting. He speaks of growing up in inner-city Boston, going to school in Mattapan. I listen carefully to the trials and rewards of such an atmosphere. NOT LIKE MINE.

Now I'm at school and at my house. My roommate feels so strongly about a different way of life that waits for him in Portugal. Relations strong like I've never seen them. And there is more.

I've listened to friend from home about his first half of his life in Korea. I've prodded another about his family and friends in Hong Kong. Walking in black and white as I was, I could not find the colors to show the excitement I felt about these different ways that were shared with me. Patterns then would serve my purpose.

Melting pot, blah, blah—it's hard not to sound trite when trying to describe the beauty of all these different cultures existing together in a space like patterns on a page.

In memory of Kristen Diane Barry

In the short time Kristen attended the University of Massachusetts Dartmouth, she had established herself in the Honors Program; a Mathematics major attaining a 4.0 Grade Point Average. She was a member of the Swimming and Diving team, and also played saxophone in the Jazz Band while at the university. Kristen was also very active in the Animal Rights movement. Being a highly motivated person, Kristen managed to influence other individuals she came in contact with. She hoped to inspire, motivate, and make other people more productive. Kristen is sorely missed by her family and friends.

In memory of Gerald Ventura Jr.

Gerry Ventura was a young man of rich promise. A senior Political Science major, he was to have graduated this June with Honors. He held numerous leadership responsibilities during his University career. They included: an elected member of the Student Senate, it's parliamentarian for the past two years; and Co-chair of the University Lecture Series Committee. A kind and gentel man, he was a constructive giver of his talents. He was a student leader who led by the strength of his character and was loved by his contemporaries for his unselfish spirit. He will be missed by all who taught him and who knew him.

I'm not a writer,
so I can't be creative.

I'm not an artist,
so I can't be imaginative.

I am a friend,
so I can be sincere.

You'll be missed.

Billy Valente

The Handshake of Peace

On a sunny Monday, September 13, 1993, three American presidents gawked in awe, just like everyone else, at a sudden turn toward peace. All eyes were on two old enemies in their new roles as peacemakers, men who say peace “salaam” in Arabic or “shalom” in Hebrew. Their handshake — the grasp by Arab Yasser Arafat of the hand of Jew Yitzhak Rabin — brought a gasp, a shout, and finally applause from several thousand people on the White House lawn.

A few minutes earlier Rabin’s Israel and Arafat’s Palestine Liberation Organization had signed a peace treaty that once seemed unimaginable. The PLO recognized the right of Israel to live in peace; Israel, in turn, recognized the PLO as the representative of Palestinians.

President Clinton, who guided Arafat and Rabin toward their historic handshake, called it a “great occasion of history and hope.”

Sheik Omar Abdel-Rahman

When Sheik Omar Abdel-Rahman was charged on August 25, 1993, with commanding "a war of urban terrorism" in New York City, he was already one of the most unpopular figures in the United States.

Although his supporters described him as sincere and pious, the blind cleric's radical, anti-Western preaching antagonized many Americans.

The indictment accused him of being the mastermind of a plot to blow up the World Trade Center — which had been bombed on February 26 — as well as numerous other targets in New York that never were hit, including the United Nations building and the Lincoln Tunnel.

The blind cleric, in exile from his native Egypt, denounced the bombing and denied involvement in the alleged conspiracies. But he surrendered following a tense standoff outside a Brooklyn mosque. Several of his followers also were charged.

Abdel-Rahman, 55, a vehement foe of Egypt's secular government, preached frequently at mosques in Brooklyn and Jersey City, NJ. His indictment followed a lengthy debate in the U.S. Justice Department over whether there was sufficient evidence to justify criminal charges.

Amtrak crash

An Amtrak train hurtled off a bridge into an inky bayou in Saraland, Alabama, early on the morning of September 22, 1993, plunging its sleeping passengers into a nightmare of fire, water and death.

A barge had struck and weakened the bridge shortly before the wreck, which killed 47 people aboard the cross-country Sunset Limited. Some of the victims were trapped in a submerged, silver passenger car, others in a burned engine.

It was the deadliest wreck in Amtrak's 23-year history. But 159 people survived, and some helped other passengers who clung to wreckage from a collapsed section of the bridge in a swamp crawling with alligators and snakes. The Los Angeles-to-Miami Amtrak train crashed at about 3 a.m., about 10 miles north of downtown Mobile. All three engines and four of the eight cars went off the bridge. Two of the cars were passenger cars; one was completely submerged in water about 16 feet deep.

Pope John Paul II visits U.S.

Pope John Paul II used some of the harshest rhetoric of his 15-year papacy to decry abortion and euthanasia during a four-day trip to the United States in August, 1993.

On the last day of his visit to Denver, with Vice President Al Gore standing nearby, the Pope denounced the "culture of death."

"The culture of life means respect for nature and protection of God's work of creation," John Paul said in a farewell address at Stapleton International Airport that was attended by Gore, a supporter of abortion rights. "In a special way, it means respect for human life from the first moment of conception until its natural end."

Earlier in the day, medical crews were overwhelmed as 14,000 people sought treatment during and after an outdoor Mass that the pontiff celebrated at a park just outside Denver. But despite the hot, dusty conditions, spirits were generally high.

The Mass formally concluded World Youth Day, the biennial pilgrimage of international youth convened by the pope.

Somalia

The world was drawn to Somalia in 1992 by photographs of starving children. It was almost driven away the following year by photographs of fighting adults.

The latter pictures — notably one of a captured American serviceman being dragged through the streets of the capital, Mogadishu — symbolized the difficulty a 33-country United Nations force had coping with a country that had descended into feudalism.

Mogadishu was a city divided, with a northern sector held by warlord Ali Mahdi Mohamed, and the south by a rival, Mohamed Farah Aidid. Aidid and Ali Mahdi had united to overthrow dictator Mohamed Siad Barre, whom they forced into exile in 1991. But their ensuing contest for power led to a full-scale war over Mogadishu that killed 350,000 people in fighting and exacerbated a famine.

Aidid became the U.N.'s bete noir after he was suspected of ordering an attack on a group of Pakistani peacekeepers.

U.N. forces launched a manhunt for Aidid, but its forces halted ground patrols and all but essential military convoys in Mogadishu after an October 3 battle that left 18 Americans, one Malaysian and more than 300 Somalis dead.

Midwest Floods

It was the biggest, wettest story of the summer.

The floods that washed across the Midwest may have been the worst in American History, and they captured the concern of people across the nation.

The great flood was the story that most interested Americans in the summer of 1993, with nearly two of three telling pollsters that they followed the story "very closely" — on a par with attention paid in years past to the Persian Gulf War.

The stage for disaster was set during the winter, when unusually heavy snow fell. There were no midwinter thaws, so the snow melted rapidly as spring arrived, enough to cause scattered record flooding. And then came the rains. Des Moines, for example, logged more than 32 inches by the end of July, compared with 18.7 in a normal year.

The casualties ranged from the thousands left homeless to investors and consumers in every corner of the United State. Some farm produce prices rose and insurers had to pay out millions in compensation. And Archer Daniels Midland Co., a big, publicly traded grain processor, reported a drop in profits.

Michael Jordan

One of the biggest stories of the 1993-1994 basketball season occurred before the first pre-season exhibition game — Michael Jordan, the world's best basketball player and one of its most famous athletes, announced his retirement.

Jordan's retirement came after he had led the Chicago Bulls to three straight National Basketball Association championships, the most recent a victory over the Phoenix Suns in the 1993 finals.

His departure, which Jordan announced at a news conference on October 6, 1993, stripped the league of its most recognizable name and robbed it of a breathtaking acrobat who led the NBA in scoring the last seven years.

"The thrill is gone. I've done it all. There's nothing left for me to do," Jordan told a reporter the night before his formal announcement.

Jordan said his desire to retire at the age of 30 was not prompted by his father's murder during the summer; in fact, he said, father and son had already discussed it.

World Series

It was one of the most dramatic home runs in the long history of the World Series.

Joe Carter of the Toronto Blue Jays stepped to the plate in the ninth inning of the sixth game of the series, with two runners on base and the score 6-5 in favor of the Philadelphia Phillies.

Carter's Blue Jays lead the series, three games to two. And after one swing of his bat, the game was over and the Jays had won their second straight series. The right fielder circled the bases, arms outstretched over his head, and slapped palms with third base coach Nick Leyva as the crowd in Toronto's SkyDome stood and roared with glee.

Miss America

Seinfeld

The show started off as an upstart, but by the time they finished handing out the prime time Emmy Awards on September 29, 1993, "Seinfeld" was a member of the sitcom Old Boys Club. The NBC program took home three trophies, making it one of the night's two biggest winners, along with "Picket Fences."

"Now we're part of the establishment," Jerry Seinfeld, the series' star, told reporters after the program. "We're part of the old guard."

"Seinfeld," which features the comic misadventures of the New York comedian and his friends, was named best comedy series. Michael Richards, who plays the show's self-obsessed Kramer, won as best supporting actor in a comedy. Writer Larry David was honored for an episode entitled "The Contest."

"We started off so small it's going to be easy to thank people because there's like two people to thank here that even knew we were on," Seinfeld said as he accepted the award.

Asked about critics' complaints that "Seinfeld" is a show about nothing, he said: "It's a show about everything. That's the same as nothing."

Nancy Kerrigan attack

Nancy Kerrigan, the 22 year-old U.S. figure skater who was among the gold medal favorites at the 1994 Winter Olympics, was attacked after practice on January 6, 1994, by a man who hit her on the right leg with a club or metal bar.

The blow severely bruised her knee and bruised her quadriceps tendon, an injury that could impede her jumping and landing ability.

Within days, an anonymous phone call to authorities pointed to Kerrigan's rival, Tonya Harding, and a few of her entourage.

Harding's ex-husband, Jeff Gillooly, her bodyguard, Shawn Eckardt, and two hired men were arrested.

The U.S. Figure Skating Association has formed a panel to investigate the case, a first step in the process that could lead to Harding's removal from the team.

California earthquake

At 4:31 a.m. on Monday, January 17, 1994, an earthquake of 6.6 magnitude (Richter scale reading) struck Southern California, claiming 61 lives and leaving damage that may total $30 billion.

Five interstate highways, including the state's major north-south route, and three state highways were closed at several points, crippling transportation.

Broken aqueducts cut off much of the water supply to the San Fernando Valley, the 260 square-mile suburban expanse hit hardest by the quake. Over 500,000 customers were left without power in the Los Angeles County.

Streets were empty during nights of the 11 p.m. - 7 a.m. curfew. National Guard troops patrolled against looting.

"The days ahead will also be rough for us," Mayor Richard Riordan warned Angelenos, even as he praised them for a cool-headed response to the crisis. "Let's all stick together."

This is a piece that speaks not specifically about the diversity of cultures, but about the variety of issues that all cultures must face. Each of eighteen squares represents a crisis or a problem; an issue we as a whole must deal with. Each of the two remaining squares, one black and one white, acts as a sort of etcetera – to remind us that there are more issues than these and to allow the viewer to remember what is also important to them.

Each square contains one of the following:

- racism
- abortion
- drugs and alcohol
- sex and AIDS
- unwanted babies
- unemployment
- war
- education
- animal rights
(meat, trapping, experimentation)
- abuse
- homelessness and hunger
- old age
- garbage
- guns and violence
- pollution of the air,
earth, and water
- destruction of the environment

Student Appreciation Week

To help kick off the start of school, and help students get back into the groove, the Student Activities Board sponsored Student Appreciation Week. (formally Welcome Back Week)

The week began with the first Comedy Night of the semester on Monday, September 20.

On Tuesday, a Multiculturalism Reception was held to promote cultural diversity on campus. Also on Tuesday, the movie "DAVE" was shown in the Drive-In feature.

The annual campus BBQ was scheduled to take place on Wednesday, but unfortunately, it rained. While indoors, clubs and organizations showed their stuff to students at Club Fest '93

On Thursday, a new student favorite, the coffeehouse featuring Back-to-Back drew a huge crowd and was a big success.

On Friday, the biggest Video Dance Party, along with sumo wrestling and an orbitron, drew the attention of students new and old to have a great evening.

Saturday capped off the week with a bus trip into Boston to watch the Red Sox vs. Minnesota.

CLUB FEST

Cultural Diversity Week

"The purpose of Cultural Diversity Week is to educate students and faculty about different lifestyles, ethnic groups, and religions. Culture is different to everyone. Cultural Diversity Week is the recognition and appreciation of people from all over the world." – Dr. John Bush, Chairman of the Committee on Cultural Diversity.

The week ran from October 3–7. Events included several workshops, lectures, and keynote speakers.

The Cultural Diversity Committee capped off its week with the second annual International Night dinner. Food from Hispanic, African-American, Cape Verdean, Portuguese, Indian, Chinese, and other cultures pleased many. Music from Portuguese and African-American cultures provided for a festive evening. A demonstration in Tae-Kwon-Do was also a "hit".

Frank Santos

This past Fall, UMass Dartmouth was once again visited by R-rated hypnotist Frank Santos. He performed before a large and enthusiastic crowd. After bringing his "victims" on stage and weeding out those who weren't affected by hypnotism, the fun began. Frank had those on stage seeing, smelling, and feeling things that kept the crowd constantly laughing. Some people were told they were Madonna, Mick Jagger Jr., and even a pantyhose-wearing Batman, while the rest of the hypnotized group really believed it and tried to touch "celebrities." Once again, everyone enjoyed the hilarious show, and except for some embarrassment on the part of the participants (after being told what they did on stage), no harm was done.

Homecoming Weekend

This year's homecoming festivities were bigger and better than ever. Over 19,000 graduates were invited back for a weekend filled with reunion activities. Christina Bruen, the Alumni Affairs Coordinator, explained that she wants to make homecoming "a strong tradition on this campus."

Homecoming day brought the infamous Football game, and tailgate party in parking lot 9, which always seems to be a favorite amongst the alumni.

The weekend was definitely a success. The activities brought people together in celebration of their college days past.

In Living Colour

Tommy Davidson and Shawn Wayans had UMass Dartmouth in stitches with stand-up comedy from the hit FOX T.V. show, In Living Colour. They were too funny; You go guys!

Zoo Station

You too! This U2 cover band gave a marvelous tribute to the great Irish band at the UMD Auditorium. Zoo Station's music created a remarkable likeness to bands greatest hits. They played songs from each of U2's monster albums, which included "One," "A Sort of a Homecoming," "Bad," and "Desire" to name a few. Achtung Baby!

A Day of Dialogue: Living and

With the help of several students, faculty members, and administrators, Dr. John E. Bush, Special Assistant for Affirmative Action and Cultural Diversity, sponsored The Day of Dialogue: Living and Learning in a Pluralistic Society, a one-day conference geared to break down the walls that "isms" cause on campus.

The day consisted of workshops ranging from combating the so-called "isms", to workshops on safety, international students, homophobia, and multiculturalism.

The day was capped off with a mesmerizing lecture by keynote speaker, Derrick Bell.

Learning in a Pluralistic Society

Keynote Speaker, Derrick Bell, author of Faces at the Bottom of the Well, shared his views on diversity with a full audience in the Main Auditorium, bringing The Day of Dialogue to a fitting and successful end.

Tom Wolfe

Tom Wolfe is recognized around the world as the modern master of social satire. For over two decades he has chronicled and analyzed American mass culture. His runaway best seller The Bonfire of the Vanities stands as a brilliant evocation both of the peculiar class structure and politics of New York City, and the economic excesses of the 1980s. Considered the father of the "New Journalism," Wolfe has also brought his cynicism, irony and sense of the ridiculous to subjects ranging from the world of modern art (The Painted World) to life of the Mercury astronauts (The Right Stuff).

Mr. Wolfe follows a long train of distinguished lecturers presented under the auspices of the Lecture Series Committee.

CVPA Design Alumni Reunion

The 2nd Annual CVPA Design Alumni Reunion was, once again, a huge success. Students from past and present shared ideas, pieces of work, and theories in a design environment dedicated to the future of UMass Dartmouth's strong design department.

The day was filled with portfolio presentations, past and present graduate projects, and later that evening, the fifth annual art auction. Proceeds from the auction supports scholarships given to graduating seniors from the College of Visual and Performing Arts.

Chancellor Cressy's Investiture

The investiture ceremony was keynoted by Dr. Melvin Schwartz, a Nobel laureate, and attended by many notables including Gov. William F. Weld and Rep. Barney Frank. The ceremony was the highlight of a week of events that began with a lecture by Tom Wolfe, novelist and journalist, and concluded with dinner at the Hawthorne Country Club. Between these were the Jazz Festival, and two other presentations by Dr. Schwartz. A campus colloquy featuring Carnegie Foundation Pres. Ernest L. Boyer, was postponed due to a snowstorm.

Men's Basketball

The men's basketball team advanced all the way to the NCAA round of 16 this season. They posted a 22-6 record, including a phenomenal 13-1 Little East Conference record. The team rebounded from a tough loss at Sacred Heart to show their mettle with a 102-101 overtime victory at Plymouth State. They also managed a thrilling 93-86 win over Plymouth to take the Little East Tournament. They were knocked out of the NCAA Tournament by the eventual winners, Lebanon Valley.

Women's Basketball

The women's basketball team entered a rebuilding stage this year. They posted a final record of 5-18, but did manage a 4-7 home record. Their season highlight came when they got revenge against UMass Boston. They lost their first matchup 74-82, but then shut down the Beacons 59-45 later in the season.

Hockey

The hockey team provided the UMass faithful with another thrilling season, finishing 18-5-1. They were knocked out of the ECAC tournament when they suffered a heart-breaking 2-1 loss to Assumption. The team was a scoring powerhouse, scoring more than three goals in all but three games, not counting their first three matchups.

Eric Guerin

All my life I grew up in an environment of mixed cultures: African-American, Puerto Rican, Cuban, Laotian, and my own background being white. I grew up with other children from all of these groups. I never really experienced racism because we all saw each other similarly; as human beings.

What truly scares me is that I never encountered racism towards my friends or racist attitudes until I reached college. I figured at this level of learning, people would be more open-minded, but I've found the reverse to be true. This collage deals with one particular friend of mine and the racism he has suddenly been subject to. Although he's seen more of it throughout his life than I ever have, or ever will, he has recently had comments and events in his life which has changed his view of the American Dream, and in turn, has changed my own.

If nothing is ever accomplished by this piece, I hope it can at least broaden the mind of at least one person. If it can, I feel my goal is accomplished.

Freedom

Where's my fair share?
My piece of the pie?
You say you're scared of me,
But I'm the minority in your world.

Rape me of my culture,
Rape me of my pride,
Calling me a nigger,
Calling me a jigaboo

Stereotype me,
Criticize me,
Soon you'll ostracize me,
Drowning me in a sea of oppression.

So now I see your lies,
Through this false facade you've built.

That piece of pie I was promised,
Was never there.
So God bless AmeriKKKa,
The so called land of the free.

Commencement

It was a sight to rival Camelot. Victorious shouts filled the University of Massachusetts Dartmouth amphitheater as the crowd paid homage to the 1,257 battle proven graduates of the Class of 1994 who anxiously awaited entrance into the arena as trumpets blared, drums rolled, and banners decked in hues of blue, gold, orange, black and white fluttered in the breeze — a striking contrast against the bright blue sky.

The graduates stood in their honored positions, the front rows just below center stage, an invisible tension broke. Many grads stood on their toes, necks craning as they searched the crowd for those support had made this victory celebration possible. Meanwhile proud friends and relatives were diligently scanning the ranks of the graduates looking for their distinguished loved ones. Mutual sightings, accomplished despite the distance involved, produced broad smiles and excited waves.

Other grads, however, still seemed nervous and stared solemnly at the ground or dazedly into space — as if the splendor before them were nothing more than a tantalizing mirage. Yet one more short march, this time up the platform steps, and they would be rewarded with their degrees — a reward as precious, and at times, almost as elusive and unobtainable to these graduates as the Holy Grail so painstakingly sought after by brave knights in legends of old.

After formally greeting everyone present, Chancellor Peter H. Cressy praised the Class of 1994 "Not only because this is my first class, but because I believe they have been an exceptional class in the leadership of this university during its transitional years. Janet Osborne and her officers of the Student Senate have been impressive. And Class President Michael Wood and his officers have been extraordinary."

Wood was later greeted with an exhilarating round of applause from his peers as he began his address, but no speaker received the thunderous praise Vice President for University Relations Laslo Loyd was awarded for promising to deliver "the shortest set of remarks for the day" in a well organized ceremony that lasted almost three hours under a blazing summer sun.

Author Gail Sheehy was the commencement speaker, whose accomplishments include the National Magazine Award, and international acclaim for her book Passages, which remained on the New York Times best sellers list for three years. Sheehy addressed the specific challenge that UMass graduates would have to face in the years ahead — the bewildering task of choosing a life course. Gail Sheehy's final admonition was one of her favorite quotes from German philosopher, Goethe: "Whatever you can do, or dream you can — begin it. Boldness has genius, power and magic in it."

Of course the Class of '94 was already well aware of the principals of Goethe's philosophy. The graduation ceremonies of June 5, 1994 were merely the cumulation of four or more years of dreaming (and hard work and boldness) — and resulted in a day that was truly magical.

Understanding Multiculturalism

Diversity. Individuality. Multiculturalism. These are words in which the members of the University at Massachusetts Dartmouth family live by. These are words that promote longevity and strength. These are words that serve as blocks in the formation of this University. Without them, this University would be non-existent.

This is not opinion, this is fact.

This year's Scrimshaw is geared to the education, exhibition, and understanding of diversity at UMass Dartmouth.

Scrimshaw

(May 1994)

To the the Class of 1994,

Ok, rub it in my face. If things went the way they should have, I would have walked along with you in the precession on June 5, received my diploma, and took that leap of faith. I still have one more year...one more year...

"...Oh to have one more year."

I'm sure that is what most of you are thinking. Maybe...maybe not.

Whichever the case, I'm sure that you have no regrets, and that if you had to do it all over again...you would!...Maybe.

I take great pride in being the Editor-In-Chief of your 1994 Scrimshaw. Primarily for the fact that this is your yearbook. A yearbook that you may share with your grandchildren one day, or to use as a reference for when those ten, and twenty-five year reunions come around...

..."Who was he again?"

Regardless, it is important to remind yourselves where you were then, to help understand and reach your goals later. I hope that we have created memories that will last a lifetime. We want you to look back and really appreciate what UMass Dartmouth meant to you as an individual and as a class.

Take care...

(July 17, 1994)

To all of the people that made this book possible (my friends, my colleagues...),

A month or so ago I wrote the proceeding message to the class of 1994, completed the page and sent it off to be printed. Upon receiving the proofs and looking at them for the first time today, I had realized I had not thanked a soul, which to me, showed my lack of appreciation as well as my egotistical side, qualities which one should not be proud of. What I did not realize then, is that there are many hard working, caring, important people that need to be thanked in the making of this yearbook, without them this book would have existed. Period.

Without the extreme amount of hard work contributed by Deon Barrett and Heather Harriman, this book would have never gone to print. It is through their hard work and determination that you, the Class of 1994, have a yearbook. They are your true Co-Editors-In-Chief. My thanks and admiration goes out to them for what they have accomplished.

A thousand thanks goes out to all the students, workers, administrators, and faculty members of this University, and to other special people who helped make this book possible, especially: Norval Garnett, Dean Donald Howard, Susan Costa, MEB, Beverly Drayton, Chestnut Hill Studios, Wayne Sutton at College Publications, and Jamie Quinn. Together, it is the many people of a certain foundation, such as these, and not one person, that accomplishes large and difficult endeavors, such as this yearbook. I thank each one of them from the bottom of my heart.

I thank all of the wonderful people who put their time and energy into making this university what it is, and for giving people like myself the opportunity to produce pieces that exemplify what UMass Dartmouth stands for.

I apologize for not realizing and appreciating, before today, what this school truly consists of...

Thank you all so much,

Kevin Gawthrop
Editor-In-Chief

To the Class of 1994,

I'm not usually one to speak my mind, but somethings should not go unmentioned. A lot of stress, hours, and work have gone into the production of this book. It has been a rough year, so I must be honest and admit that several staff altercations nearly caused the Class of 1994 not to have a yearbook to preserve it's fondest memories of UMass Dartmouth.

Many people (the silent majority), including myself stepped in to pick up the fallen pieces and put the yearbook back together again. I have personally assumed the responsibility of completing the yearbook alone, and it has not been easy! I feel I am literally carrying the Class of 1994 on my shoulders. Anyhow, back to the silent majority... Without these people it would have been impossible to complete the book — Thanks go out to: Dean Donald Howard, Norval Garnet, Chestnut Hill Studios, contributing TORCH members, and Sue Costa and MEB for their guidance. I'd also like to give utmost thanks to Heather Harriman for the much needed help over the final days of production — you were great! Thanks to anyone who was not metioned, your help was greatly appreciated too.

Well here you have it; your college yearbook. I hope you enjoy and appreciate this book. I wish you much happiness and success in all you do.

Take it easy...

Deon M. Barrett

Layout Editor

Congratulations Class of 1994!

I would like to begin by giving recognition where recognition is due. Most of you probabally did not notice these individuals hiding behind cameras at every event held this year, but it was their hard work and dedication which produced the majority of photographs in this book.

Photography Contributors: Brian McDermott, Sabine Selvais, Val Vinton, Stephanie Sears, and the rest of the Torch photo staff, Ann D'Amadio, Eric Guerin, Ed Irizarry, Joe Skees, and Steve Seaver. Special thanks to Dean Howard, Barbara Costa, Sue Costa, Bev Drayton, Mike Josti and Mary Elizabeth Butler (for getting me into all of the events), Manny Pereira, Joe Geoffroy and the Chestnut Hill Studios staff (for all of their time, energy, and support), and Derek Cotton for his endless help and patience.

In closing I would like to thank Deon for his unprecedented energy and courage in getting this yearbook done. (We did it!) I hope you all enjoy your 1994 Yearbook, and remember the people behind the pages.

I wish you all happiness and success in the years to come.

Happy job hunting everyone!
